In France, the passengers change trains to the royal-blue train with brass details. The train is waiting to take you through the most breath-taking acres of France to the capital, while a four-course dinner is served. The dinner is made unforgettable by the sumptuous surroundings of the glass and wood paneled dining cars as well as the quality of the food a miracle of skill created in the tiny galley kitchen	13

Claude Monet was a famous French painter whose work gave a name to the art movement, 'Impressionism'; which was concerned with capturing light and natural forms.

Claude Monet was born on November 14, 1840, in Paris, France. In 1845, at the age of 5, Monet moved with his family to Le Havre, a port town in the Normandy region. He grew up there with his older brother, Leon. While he was reportedly a decent student, Monet did not like being confined to a classroom. He was more interested in being outside. At an early age, Monet developed a love of drawing. He filled his schoolbooks with sketches of people, including caricatures of his teachers. While his mother supported his artistic efforts, Monet's father wanted him to go into business. Monet suffered greatly after the death of his mother in 1857.

He enrolled in the Academie Suisse. After an art exhibition in 1874, a critic insultingly dubbed Monet's painting style "impression", since it was more concerned with form and light than realistic pictures, and the term stuck.

Monet struggled with depression, poverty and illness throughout his life. He died in 1926. His work is considered to be the best example of 'Impressionism', and most people are able to recognise his paintings. The National gallery in London holds some of his most important works.

Marie-Antoinette QUEEN OF FRANCE (1755-1793)	1
	2
Described by her brother, the emperor Joseph II, as “likeable and honest”, Marie-Antoinette, Austrian princess and wife of Louis XVI, remains one of the most fascinating figures of the history of Versailles. She is known for supposedly saying the phrase, “Let them eat cake” when discussing the situation of the ill-treated poor of France at the time.	3
	4
	5
	6
	7
Marie-Antoinette was born in Vienna on 2 November 1755. Her marriage to the future Louis XVI, on 16 May 1770, was partly the work of the Minister Choiseul, one of the principal players in the Franco-Austrian reunion. But this union was greeted with some reserve by public opinion, marked by the long years of war against Austria.	8
	9
	10
	11
	12
Louis XVI gave her the task of entertaining the court. The queen organised theatrical performances two or three times a week and revived the grand balls. She also led the court in play in the Salon de la Paix and played billiards and cards with great enthusiasm. Marie-Antoinette was a music-lover and played the harp. The Queen also devoted a lot of her time to fashion and received daily advice on the choice of her dresses from her dressmaker and designer Rose Bertin. Her hairdresser, Leonard, devised the hairstyles decorated with feathers that she adored.	13
	14
	15
	16
	17
	18
	19
	20
People remember her as an influential person who brought about change and was very modern for her time. Her palaces were very grand and she designed furniture and curtains and had huge mirrors in all her homes. She enjoyed walking with her ladies in the garden. These were very large and grand with many gardeners. Concerts were held in the gardens.	21
	22
	23
	24
	25
	26
There were, during her reign, a lot of very poor people living in Paris and throughout France who did not like her expensive palaces and her extravagance. This led to a good deal of unhappiness and dislike for the royal family.	27
	28
	29

26. How was Marie Antoinette described?

- a. Likeable and honest
- b. Honest and pretty
- c. Likeable and happy

27 Which famous phrase did Marie Antoinette apparently say regarding the poor of France?

- a. Let them eat bread
- b. Let them eat cake
- c. Let them starve

28. Where was she born?

- a. Vienna
- b. Vermont
- c. Berlin

29. What games did she like to play?

- a. Cards and polo
- b. Billiards and running
- c. Billiards and cards

30. What festivities did she hold in her gardens?

- a. Concerts
- b. Singing
- c. Dancing

31. What accessory did Marie Antoinette put in her hair?

- a. Bows
- b. Feathers
- c. Flowers
